

Keep the variance prior constant and relatively non-informative ($\text{inv_gamma}(0.1, 0.1)$), when the between group variation increases, the centered parameterization eventually has two modes, but also becomes less metastable.

The non-centered parametrization has a worse performance when the within group variation is small or the between group variation is large.

